

LEARNING JOURNEY

PSYCHOLOGY

THE RIGHT WAY R

Memory

Our memories are the fundamental building blocks of who we are. You will develop an understanding of memory processes, theories and structures. This will enable you to revise, rehearse and master knowledge that will prove vital for your revision strategies for A level and your future academic studies more expertly. Understanding key ideas as to how memory is an active process, understanding why we forget and making assessments on the factors that contribute to the inaccuracy of eyewitness testimony.

VOCABULARY: Episodic, coding, capacity, duration, modality-specific, retroactive, proactive, interference, central executive, phonological loop, visuo-spatial sketchpad, anxiety, post-event discussion

READY
RESPECTFUL
RESPONSIBLE